A SPECIALTY

KATEPWE.

—The spring freshets promise to be light this year.

—Mr. Rigby was trying the harrows nearly two weeks ago but had to quit it again.

—The rise in wheat caused a stir among the farmers still holding considerable quantities.

—Spring has been making a great effort to get here ahead of time but on the whole it can hardly be called a success.

—Mr. Grover, P.S.I., visited this place in his official capacity a couple of weeks ago. He showed traces of his recent illness in a marked degree.

—Mr. Ferry has large congregations in the schoolhouse here and the people are glad to hear that he has decided to make this a permanent appointment.

—Mr. Skinner, of Lake View, has purchased the large frame building previously occupied as a store at Katepwe and expects to have it down to Lake View within a week.

—The latest changes in the homestead and pre-emption law seems to give great satisfaction to all except those who wanted to cancel some body's pre-emption. But it would be difficult indeed to show the wisdom of raising the postage rate on letters. Perhaps that is one of the few backward steps necessary to hasten commercial union.

INDIAN HEAD.

—Wheat market slow, price paid for No. 1 hard 92 cents.

—Miss Ellie Carson, of Yorkton, is town at present visiting her sister Mrs. McIntosh.

—Emigrants are now arriving to settle on our vast wheat belt. Still they come.

—Mr. Eli Williamson and Mr. Boone has arrived from Ontario with a carload of stock.

—Mr. Harry Partridge returned from Ontario a few days ago. Guess we won't congratulate him. Sorry!

—Already some of the farmers in this vicinity have begun seeding, if fine weather continues seeding will be in full swing in a few days.

FORT PELLY.

—The Brass settlement on "The Key" Reserve is decidedly thriving, the men being hardworking, industrious, and ambitious.

—The winter has been as mild as elsewhere throughout the Territories though the snowfall has hardly been as great as in many other places.

—The hunting has not been nearly as good as usual, lynx and rabbits having deserted this part of the country, an event of periodical recurrence.

—Mr. Roster, of the Hudson's Bay Coy. here and late of Fort Qu'Appelle, is making himself very popular amongst the people, who all hope that he may long remain amongst them.

—Mr. W. E. Jones, our Indian agent here, has introduced a system of work on these Reserves which bids fair to produce most favorable results. It has already had a most beneficial effect and the people are gradually exchanging their old plan of loafing about and begging for the regular work and independence of the white man. Through the same influence we expect soon to have a weekly mail for which all will be most devoutly grateful, as the postal arrangements up to the present have been most decidedly unsatisfactory.

SQUIRREL HILLS.

—Travelling is difficult in this section, as every little slough is filled with water or soft snow.

—Mr. J. Beach, Esq., sowed five bushels of wheat on Monday, and Mr. Enos Beach sowed about five acres on Tuesday, and the present weather continuing seeding will be general towards the last of the week.

—The farmers south-east of Qu'Appelle are greatly encouraged with the excellent indications for crops this year. The land is in excellent order for seeding, amply moist and thoroughly pulverized by the frosts of the past winter.

—Mr. J. Beach, in his kind and generous manner, gave away his only daughter to an enterprising bachelor from Wide Awake, named Finlay McKay, on Wednesday last. That the business might be thoroughly satisfactory, Rev. Alfred Andrews, of Qu'Appelle, was called in to conduct the proceedings. They left shortly after the spread for their home with the best wishes of all their acquaintances.

TREE CULTURE.

To the Editor of the Progress.—

Sir, This subject in which I dare say, it is not difficult to enlist the interest of your readers. Many of them live in "dreary treeless wastes," and lament the lack of shade and shelter, comfort and sightliness to which they had been accustomed elsewhere. Trees are among the last things I should think of leaving out of my plans in this unwooded country, and plans well laid will not involve a great deal of toil to secure the benefits they bring. As I speak from experience you will allow me to relate some things gathered from it.

Arriving in the fall of '83, one of the first things the next spring was to plant in the form of a horse shoe around the house. We got some 400 white poplars from the bluffs and planted them as carefully as possible in the curve prepared. We dug places deep and wide enough to receive the roots, chopped and killed the sod as well as we could, put a pailful of water to each tree, covered the ground with a good thickness of old straw, and laid heavy stones on the roots where we feared the trees would be moved too much by the wind. Nearly all of them grew that year, or at least lived. Some of them died the next year, and the next, and the next. Last year those remaining showed good vitality, and will, I think, continue to do well. But the growth is slow, and I would never again bother with poplars.

I sowed a few native maple seed in '85, and also some native ash. They made little growth the first two years which were unfavorably dry. The third year the maples grew splendidly, and so did the ash on the fourth year. A good many of the maples are now ten feet high. They were sown closely and not thinned out, so they might form a windbreak, which they now do, arresting the snow and forming, during the leafy season, a perfect shelter around the stable yard. Had they been thinned out to allow growth they would have been much larger. I am informed by a reliable and careful observer that, in the favored soil and climate of High Bluff, trees had grown to 30 feet from the seed in five years. We may not accomplish so much, but proper care, skill and location, will do a great deal. Last spring I transplanted over 1000 trees, and only two or three of them died, and even they should have lived with fair play. In another year or two we shall have all the snow drifts at a respectable distance from our buildings, and stand in no danger, like some, of looking out after a blizzard to find that our stables have disappeared, and that, exploration being made, they must be entered through the roof.

We have long rows of native maple growing up closely with avenues between for kitchen garden and small fruit garden. Native currants—black and red—the goni-line red—and native gooseberries of course succeed. My cultivated red, black and white currants also succeed, and my cultivated gooseberries likewise, except the Houghton seedling, which the winter kills hopelessly. I am now ordering some of the hardiest apples, crabs, plums and raspberries. These trees I shall plant on a northern exposure, to avoid early growth and consequent killing by frost. I have an idea that the apple trees which have so generally died in Manitoba, have died, not from the want of protection above ground, but below. When the earth warms in April and the sap rises in the tree, the heavy night frost comes and turns them into ice, and so bursts the tree and brings disease and death. When the earth is frozen in November, I would cover with a foot or two of old straw and keep the frost in the ground till all danger by night frost in spring should be past. Then remove the mulch, stir the soil, and the tree will grow apace. Try to prevent late rank growth, and in the latter part of August cut back the largest and greenest that the remaining part may harden and mature. I have great hopes of raising apples if spared, and of thus becoming the cynosure of many eyes.

The following instructions for the culture of the native maple may be useful to the unexperienced:

First, bring the ground into good cultivation. Destroy, especially all the prairie grass. If you sow the seed, let it be in low moist ground. When the trees have grown two or three years, they will do on drier. They are most easily and safely handled at two years, and are therefore cheaper than when older; but they will bear transplanting at almost any age when well rooted and properly handled. Open straight, deep and wide furrows, six, eight and ten feet apart, as you may desire. Prepare places in these furrows, deep and wide enough to receive and cover the roots two or three inches deeper than when they grow, and at what distances suit you. Spread out by hand all the roots in natural position. Put fine earth close about all the roots, leaving no hollows or interstices. When the hole is half filled and well packed the tree perfectly erect, put a good supply of water about it and complete the filling, leaving the surface saucer-shaped to retain falling moisture. If the tree be large it is better to stay it with heavy stones on the roots than to tie it. It will be good to mulch the trees—with old straw or litter—but maple treated as above directed are almost sure to live, and are the quickest means of shelter and fuel, and are easy means of sugar and syrup. The bruised roots should be smoothly cut at the ends with an upward slant, and all the branches of the tree cut off, leaving buds enough to form new branches. The root power being reduced, the branch power must be reduced to correspond; otherwise the superabundance of leaves will exhale the sap too fast and the tree will dry up and perish. Cattle are liable to discover that maples are good to eat, and are to be carefully fenced off. It is poor policy to plant trees and run any risk of spoiling them.

Yours, etc.,

THE WORLD OF TRAVEL.

(By C. T. Lewis, Indian Head.)

Some people say the world is getting worse instead of better, that we are retrograding instead of progressing. Its a grand mistake. To-day they pick up a morning newspaper and are shocked with the record of one day's crime. They forget that they are taking in at a glance the doings of the wide universe, that while they slept the vigilant operator was awake, and with his faithful hand upon the mighty electric pulse, breathes out the great world's sorrows. These are caught up by the type and under large head lines are brought to conspicuous notice, while a million joys are never mentioned and the thousand good deeds done in a day by the vast army of good men and noble women toiling on for the world's betterment, are only treated as ordinary matters or with silence. No, this old world of ours is on the up grade, and it is being fitted up. It is a better place to live in than our fathers found it. The mountains that required a Napoleon to cross, can now be scaled by a child. The valleys are being levelled up; the rivers bridged. It no longer requires the perseverance and courage of a Columbus to cross the pathless deep. The lines of palatial steamships to-day plying between the old and new world, and that may be seen upon every sea, freighted with human life. The vast system of railways that radiate from every great centre of commerce and now grid the continents, are but the outcome and tangible expression of the great thoughts and wants of this remarkable age of human progress. They are the arteries through which pulsates the very life blood of nations. The time has passed when men and women are content to remain at home for a whole life time, and simply read of what others have seen in far off lands but they must see for themselves. The geologist in order to become pre-eminent must he himself away to the deep caverns of the lofty mountains and regions remote in order to study the footprints of the Creator in the strata of the grand old rocks with their records of the ages past.

The botanist's passion for wild flowers and strange plants draws him away from the busy haunts of men to where he can come in contact with rugged nature, where the very air is resonant with the songs of wild birds, and laden with perfume. Here undisturbed he can study nature in all her pristine beauty and loveliness and thus with all men in their varied fields of research and scientific investigation. We cannot all expect to become a Humboldt, Livingstone or a Stanley, but in this day people should travel and see some of this beautiful world. It does us good to come in contact with strangers. We soon discover that it is not all gold that glitters, that other people are as wise as we are and that we have plenty to learn. Yes, travel broadens the mind, gives man broader sympathies for his fellows. In a word, it makes all men brothers and hastens the dawn of that brighter day in the world's history, when prejudice and ignorance will be so removed, and the nations so linked together by a million ties that the sound of the war drum, and the mighty tread of armies shall be heard no more. Thomas Cook, who still lives, an old man called the father of excursions, was the first to introduce the idea of the great English exhibition of 1851. The railways were slow to act on his suggestion at first, but his idea grew and excursion trains have long since been the universal favorites of the great masses and Cook's idea has taken a wider range. It has long since developed to embrace every avenue of travel. To-day Cook's excursion tickets lead thousands of tourists in safety to all parts of the wide world, opening up Egypt, Palestine and far away India. So much for small beginnings. We already said that this old world is on the up grade. Yes and we are only beginning to get up steam; clear the track! There is reform and improvement everywhere going on. Take the engineering and mechanical departments of our great railways, the very first of importance in the way of safety, and what do we see. Never were there greater strides or exhibition of engineering skill apparent. The old is giving place to the new; stone and iron bridges are taking the place of wood; the iron rail has given place to the steel; compare the passenger coach of even fifteen years ago to the palatial Pullman and other improved coaches of to-day and mark the wonderful improvements made in so short a time. In this department money is no object; expense is lost sight of when comfort and safety can be secured to the public by the adoption of some new invention and the same is true of all the various departments of the service, each in the hands of live energetic progressive men, vying with each other in their efforts to keep abreast of the times.

WHAT IS HOME?

Go ask that young man, who, disregarding the councils and entreaties of a faithful mother and anxious father, breaks away from the restraints of his early home, and takes a downward course? He qualifies the damning cup, and acts as if life was a mere plaything; laughs to silence the voice of warning. Step by step he finds himself a criminal; justice demands his wretched life; the awful gallows loom in sight; it is forever too late, but oh! the memories of home.

Go ask that wayward daughter, once the very pride and sunshine of her early home, where she was cherished and loved by all who knew her. An ornament in society; her smile a benediction; the sound of her approaching footsteps music to the ear, but the fiendish smile of the tempter lured her. In an unguarded moment the fatal mistake is made, and she turns away from the light of home. The cruel world forever closes its portals behind her and the dark shadows that fall on her early grave, are only intensified by the brightness that surrounded her childhood and innocence.

Go ask the soldier boy, who with noble pride, marched away from his rural home at his country's call with a "God bless you" and a parting kiss from his patriotic mother. He falls amid the din of battle, and as his comrade stoops to give him a draft of cooling water to quench his thirst, catches the last low whisper that escapes his parched lips—some message for home and mother.

Go ask the hardy sailor singing merrily at the top of the mast as he unfurls the sail to catch the favorable breeze while he turns away from some foreign shore! Ask him why he sings and he will tell you with manly pride, that his ship is homeward bound, and he is thinking of his humble cot by the sea.

Ask the lonely pioneer far removed from the associations of home, and he will tell you he never understood the meaning and magic of that word home before as he understands it now!

Howard Payne, the author of "Home, sweet home," was himself homeless. Years ago when Jennie Lind sang in New York to listening thousands, she hushed the vast audience to silence as she sang the compositions of Beethoven, Handel and others, but when she began, with pathetic emotion to sing "Home, sweet home," the thousands could stand it no longer.

Nearly all the world's great men and women had good homes. Washington attributed his greatness to his mother and strange as it seems that while a nation enshrines his memory and built monuments to perpetuate his name; they neglected the grave of the mother he loved so well; that had so much to do in moulding the destiny of a nation.

Bismarck said of his wife, "she it is who has made me what I am." It is a historical fact that the great English statesman, Disraeli, attributed his achievements largely to his wife whom he regarded as the founder of his fortunes. The same may also be said of the great Gladstone, and Canada to-day owes much to Lady Macdonald for the eminent services of her distinguished consort, Sir John A. Macdonald. Talmage has said "God pity the man who has no home." Then by all means encourage home building. Any law that dismembers the home or encourages divorce strikes at the very vitals of a nation. Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder.

Young man, go plant a home! Have the courage to roll up your sleeves if necessary and build it with your own hands. Your poor old father did it before you, toiling on from early morn till dewy eve, and your dear mother shared the privations of pioneer life. You with soft hands and fine clothes, have the same blood coursing through your veins, if it has not been poisoned and degenerated. You are no better than they! Be a man, and have the courage to trust God and go to work! Down with the cigar and the wine cup! Don't get discouraged, there is no such a word as fail, if you set your face against the wrong and stick to the right with the iron will of a Wellington. Then plant a home! The West invites you to come. Come away from the temptations of city life! We have no room for drones; we are better without them in the busy West. Then sterling, hard-fisted young man come and act a manly part where men do and dare, but don't forget the girl of your early vows. Without her life will be a failure. Have the courage to redeem your promises and then you will no longer ask—what is home?

A BOON AND A BLESSING.

A boon and a blessing to mankind is Haggard's Yellow Oil, the great pain destroyer and healing remedy for internal and external use. Yellow Oil cures all aches and pains, rheumatism, lame back, sore throat, croup, deafness, cramps, contracted cords and lameness. Preserve it of your drug-gist.

The Culture of Sage.

All leading seedsmen include sage in their catalogues and country merchants who sell seed catalogues always have a few packets in their assortments. For sage you should have very rich ground, and sow the seed early in the spring. Thin out so as to have good strong plants standing about fifteen inches apart. When the plants begin to flower cut off the leaves and tender shoots and dry them in the shade. When once established the sage beds will last from year to year, and the plants may be multiplied by dividing them. Give clean cultivation throughout the season.

Farm Notes.

Sheep need plenty of pure water at all seasons—a fact to be remembered.

Large numbers of ducks are now raised in small yards with no water but that in the drinking vessels, and they thrive and do wonderfully well. The Pekin is the most popular variety for this purpose.

It is claimed by some that churning the whole milk makes more butter than to set the milk and churn the cream.

"Save the soil" is a good motto for the farmer, and one of the best methods is turning under growing crops.

I. K. Fitch says that 2-year old cocks which have never run with females will in a few seasons be in demand. The vital energy thus husbanded will give vigor to sire and progeny—especially needed where inbreeding is bad.

The custom of selling fruit by auction is growing in the larger cities.

Road and diphtheria are much the same—the result of colds.

In milking do not wet the cow's teats with milk. It is a filthy habit. Use water if necessary to moisten them.

Fowls can be readily trained to lay in houses by shutting them up in their houses a few days until after mid-day.

Had Something to Learn Yet.

Young Physician (at a consultation)—I have no hesitation in pronouncing the disease angina pectoris complicated with muscular atrophy.

Old Physician—You haven't, hey? Young man, when you have been practicing forty years you will have learned how to hesitate, sir. It is important in a case of this kind, sir, to hesitate, and it is also more prudent, sir.

Young Physician—May I ask you, sir, what your opinion is of the disease? Old Physician (impressively)—The disease, sir, is muscular atrophy, complicated with angina pectoris.

Young Physician (humily)—Yes sir, Chicago Tribune.

Long roads, that cover the entire district, are made of stables, and are so arranged around the neck and down the front to a straight line with Russian sails.

Rapid Transit in Washington.

If I were searching for a simile for slowest more expressive than that of the mail and express, I should use the Washington vehicle of street transportation. Not long since I was right on a car line, and could have ridden where I wanted to go for five cents, but I was in a hurry and took a cab, for which I paid fifty cents, telling the man of my anxiety to save time. Many times I called to him to drive faster, but each time he replied that he couldn't. Finally, in desperation, I used an usually strong language in demanding why he could not go faster.

"Because," he said, calmly, "the car's in the way." He was following in the track just behind that fine vehicle which I had rejected as slow. —Philadelphia Telegraph.

A Dead Language.

Latin was formerly the language of the Roman republic and empire, and was spoken over the entire Italian peninsula. It ceased to be a living tongue about the eighth century of the Christian era, but continued in use as the language of the church, of law and of learning generally, until within the last two centuries.

When the Hudson Closes.

The Hudson river was closed to navigation as follows: Nov. 23, 1880, Jan. 2, 1881, Dec. 4, 1881, Dec. 15, 1882, Dec. 19, 1884, Dec. 13, 1885, Dec. 3, 1886, and Dec. 20, 1887.

IN BETTER HUMOR NOW.

"My son aged eleven, was cured of an eruptive humor that covered his head and face with sores, by two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters and Pills," testifies Mrs. Mary Fulford, of Port Hope, Ont.

INFLUENCE OF SUNLIGHT ON TREES

A High Authority in Forestry Makes Some Interesting Statements.

In a late report from the forestry department reference is made to the effect of light on the growth of various trees. The well-known, says Professor Fernow, that light is necessary for the development of chlorophyll, and, therefore, for the life of all green plants, and especially for that of trees. The heat alone which accompanies the light is not sufficient, although the relative influence of the light and the heat on the growth is still an open question, as well as the relative requirements in light of different species of trees. In the case of forest weeds, which in forestry serve as an indication of the amount of shade which the trees exert, and with their capacity of impeding evaporation, some require full sunlight for their development, others are averse to a high degree of light. To this must be due the change in the plants of a district when its forests are removed. Then the amount of light or shade needed is modified by site. Where the sunlight is strong, in higher altitudes, drier climates, or where the growing season is longer, or there are more sunny days, some species will endure more shade. The flora of high altitudes in general requires light.

Trees nearly always develop best, in other words make most wood, in the full enjoyment of light, but their capacity of developing under shade varies greatly. The yew will thrive in the densest shade, while a few years' overtopping kills the larch; the beech will grow with considerable energy under partial shade, where the oak would only just keep alive and the birch would die. When planted in moist places, all species are less sensitive to the withdrawal of light. In the open, maples, elms, sycamores, and others grow well and make good shade trees; in a dense forest they thin out and have but scanty foliage. Conifers, such as spruces and firs, which preserve the foliage of several years' growth, have the greatest capacity for growing under shade, and preserving their foliage in spite of the withdrawal of light. In America sufficient data to group the forest trees according to the amount of light required by them have not yet been collected, but rules based on experience have long been formed. In Germany, where the behavior of trees under different conditions of light has been carefully studied. It has been found, for instance, that on the same branch those leaves which are developed under the full influence of sunlight are not only larger and often tougher in texture, and thicker, but they have a larger number of stomata or breathing pores than those less exposed to light.

Cause and Symptoms of Glanders.

A popular authority on diseases of the horse says: Glanders is alike fruitful of evil to man and beast, and is generally considered incurable. A horse may have latent glanders for years and work well, the disease being during this time as contagious as in its developed state. Cause.—The disease is somewhat varied in different cases, and may be attributed to filth, starvation or to debilitating diseases, as lung fever, catarrh or any disease capable of generating pus, which, being absorbed into the circulation, forms a ferment within the blood. Symptoms.—The membrane lining the nostrils assumes a leaden or purple color, accompanied by a thin, acid, transparent and odorless discharge. This is the first stage, during which the general health does not suffer, and the horse may do his ordinary work. The discharge grows thicker, and sinks when placed in water. The membrane lining the nostrils will be found to have sores, ragged and depressed at the top, with various veins leading to them from all sides. The appetite fails, and the horse assumes an emaciated and dull appearance. He will be hide bound, and his legs will tremble the day, and the swelling goes down at night. The ulceration of the nose is very bad, and the sores spread into his throat; the body also is sometimes afflicted with sores. The horse ultimately dies in a wasted condition.

ASSERTION NOT ARGUMENT.

The Macleod Gazette comes down pretty heavily on Police Commissioner Herchmer because some of the recommendations made by him in his annual report are favorable to Prohibition. The Gazette is always in trouble when there is an honest expression of opinion which is against the legalization of the rum traffic. It says "the Northwest is not a place where cross-roads taverns exist every few miles." No it is not, thanks to the prohibitive provisions of the North-West Act. Our Macleod contemporary is continually harping on the antagonism to the present system that exists. The greater portion of this antagonism is against the permit system, not Prohibition, and the Temperance sentiment of the country is thus made to do duty in favor of license. Of course nothing but opposition can be expected from those favoring license, as they are always opposed to any restriction of the liquor traffic. Bad as the state of things in the Northwest may be at present on this question, it is very much better than the full of license, high or low. Commissioner Herchmer brought this out very clearly in his report when he made a comparison with the province of Manitoba contiguous to our eastern boundary where a full license system prevails. The Prohibitionists are down on the present system because they want something better, and the whiskeyites are also antagonistic to it because they want something worse.

The Gazette has frequently made the remark, it is one of its most favorite expressions, that "It is a pretty well established fact that Prohibition don't prohibit." It would be most interesting reading if our contemporary would show how it has been established. Assertion without argument is of very little use in this enlightened age. We would call upon the Gazette to prove its assertion.

We have before us a copy of Mr. P. F. Collier's "Once a Week," published at Nos. 104 to 110 Attorney St., New York. It is an excellent weekly publication of fiction, fact, sensation, wit, humour and news. It contains twenty-four pages of reading matter, profusely illustrated and finely printed on good toned paper. The number for March 16 contains a large cartoon representing the Prince of Wales hoisting the Stars and Stripes over Canada. The supposed ceremony is witnessed by all the leading men of the United States, Great Britain and Canada, of whose features excellent representations are given. We expect to shortly reproduce a story from "Once a Week." Orders for this publication taken at THE PROGRESS OFFICE.

PROHIBITION PROHIBITS.

Here is a nut for the McLeod Gazette to crack. The liquor traffic had for some time been cleaned out of every village, town and city of the state of Kansas, except Kansas City, and from the following telegram it appears that the traffic has received its death blow in that city also. And yet they say Prohibition doesn't prohibit.

Kansas City, March 19.—The authorities of Kansas City, Kansas, are taking active measures against the saloonkeepers, who have for three years past been openly selling liquor in defiance of the prohibition law. The prosecuting attorney recently caused no less than fifty arrests for violation of the liquor laws, and on Saturday one of the saloonkeepers was found guilty on twenty counts and fined $2,000 and sentenced to confinement for 660 days. Yesterday twelve saloonkeepers voluntarily confessed their guilt and were fined amounts aggregating $6,000 and given from three to six months' imprisonment. The temperance people held a jubilation meeting last night.

The Globe has made a new departure on the Jesuit question. It calls undeservedly for the disallowance of the Jesuits' Estates act. It states that powerful articles in a newly-issued number of the Canada Law Journal, and in the current number of the Law Times, conclusively establish the unconstitutionality and impropriety of the act. In conclusion the Globe says: Some members of parliament have we believe, understood themselves to be bound in consistency to oppose disallowance, because they have rightly held to the doctrine that provincial legislatures are constitutionally supreme within the domain of the exclusive powers granted them by B. N. A. act. But the articles of the Law Journal and Law Times must, we think remove from the minds of all the impression that the Jesuits' Estates act is within the exclusive powers of the provincial legislatures. Their right to deal with property and civil rights must be exercised in accordance with the common law of the realm. No possible construction of exclusive powers can presume the provincial legislature to be endowed with the right to ask permission from a foreign authority to legislate or with the right to assert the co-operation of a foreign authority to be requisite to validate the operation of a provincial act. It is highly necessary that the act be disallowed. Whatever the majority in Quebec may wish, the majority in Canada must not be made to appear to adopt and assent to an act of such liberty destroying and wholly impossible admissions. Should Col. O'Brien shrink from the position that he officiously crowded Mr. Barron from, it is certain we should say that Mr. Barron or some other member will move disallowance in such a way as to prevent the evasion of the clear issue that ought to be presented.

President Harrison has made the following nominations: William W. Thomas, jr., of Maine, minister to Sweden and Norway; Samuel R. Thayer, of Minnesota, minister to the Netherlands; Chas. E. Mitchell, of Connecticut, commissioner of patents; John W. Mason, of West Virginia, commissioner of internal revenue.

PRESBYTERY OF REGINA.

This Presbytery met at Indian Head on the 13th and 14th March. There was an excellent attendance of members, and at the evening sessions the attendance was large.

Mr. John McCaul, representative elder of Knox church, Regina, was certified to the court and his name added to the roll. Rev. John Ferry, of Indian Head, was also received as a member of the Presbytery. An application for a grant of money to aid in building a church on the Glendale field was ordered to be sent to the Church and Manse Building Board with the recommendation of the Presbytery.

Petitions for the services of missionaries were received from Colleton, Willoughby, the trustees of Nisbit Academy, and Grenfell, and the former petitions sent on to the Central Home Mission Committee, and the latter referred to the Committee of Presbytery. Communications from Indian Head and Qu'Appelle Station were heard in regard to the supply of these stations. The Presbytery left this matter in the hands of the committee, it being understood, that if it were possible, supply should be given to both points. Indian Head intimated that a congregation had been formed and the sum of $800 per annum would be provided for the salary of a minister.

Requests from Moose Jaw and Broadview for leave to proceed to call were presented. Mr. Urquhart was appointed to moderate in a call at the former place and the petition of the latter was referred back to the people for further consideration and action. The petition for the formation of a new Presbytery to be called the Presbytery of Saskatchewan was received and considered.

Resolutions were passed intimating that in the judgment of the court the scheme was premature. A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Crawford for his services at Indian Head during the past winter, and also to Mr. Whyte, Superintendent of the Western Division of the C. P. Railway for his action in the interest of the employees of the railway, and in the prevention, as far as possible, of Sabbath traffic. The claims of Manitoba College and the Synod fund were brought before the Presbytery and steps taken to have both schemes brought before the notice of the people. A call from Brandon to Mr. Urquhart, of Regina, signed by 104 communicants and concurred in by 95 adherents, was received and Mr. Nicholl was appointed to preach to the congregation of Regina and cite them to appear for their interests at a meeting to be held at Broadview on the 2nd day of April at 11 a. m.

The following commissioners are appointed for the next meeting of the general assembly to be held at Toronto next June: By rotation, Messrs. Robson and Hamilton; by election, Messrs. Nicholl and McKay, and also Hon. G. W. Ross, Judge McLennan, John McKay, of Toronto, and A. Matheson, upon being appointed a representative of a session. Rev. Dr. Grant, of Kingston, was nominated for the Moderatorship of the Assembly. The supply of Saltcoats was left to the Home Mission Committee. Mr. McKitterick was appointed to cut Ann Creek for six months. Mr. Halliday to Glendale for six months. Mr. Robson was appointed to moderate in a call at Indian Head so soon as intimation of such wish is given by the Board of Management.

The evening sessions were made interesting by the presentation of the various reports of the Presbytery and addresses made by several members of the Presbytery in supporting them with slight changes, the program which has already appeared in print was followed, and the apparent and gratifying progress noticeable in most of the departments of labor attracted the attention of the many who were present.

AMENDED REGULATIONS.

The following is the substance of an interview between the Members of Parliament from Manitoba and the Northwest and the Minister of the Interior, and contains a synopsis of amendments to the Dominion Lands regulation which will shortly come into force:

With regard to cancelled pre-emption no bona fide settler will lose his pre-emption if he appeals to Land Commissioner Smith and shows that he cannot pay; no more cancellation of pre-emptions will be made until January first; any persons whose pre-emptions have been cancelled should unless their pre-emptions have meantime been settled upon, at once communicate with Mr. Smith and secure a statement. Actual settlers can take all the fallen poles and timber they require for their own use, but not for barter, only having to pay 25 cents for a permit. About second homesteads the government declines to extend the privileges to any other than those entitled under the act of 1887. Wherever persons are entitled to second homesteads, the six mile limit will be abolished in their behalf. With respect to 80 acre pre-emptions taken under the act since repealed, settlers will be allowed to regard the entire 160 as a homestead and pre-empt an additional 80 or 160 acres. In case to vacant land adjoins their homestead they can pre-empt other land near them. Persons who came to the country in 1883, but owing to some accident, are not included in the second homestead provisions of the 1887 act, will have their cases specially considered. Messrs. Davis, Davis, and McDowell urged that more common law offices be erected in the Northwest, and it was intimated that the government would endeavor to do something in the matter. Watson brought up several matters. He urged that hay lands be divided into 40 acres lots and sold by public auction as the present permit system was ruining the meadows. He also wanted the government to valuate wood lots and put up at auction and wanted the law changed that persons clearing land covered with scrub and small trees be allowed to sell wood. He said there were many farmers near the Portage who were clearing scrub land and would have to burn the wood unless they were allowed to sell. The minister said in such cases infraction of the law would be regarded leniently. Objection was also taken by Mr. Watson to the upset value of school lands at $5 as in some cases it was too high and in others too low. The minister promised to have the lands valuated before they were placed on the market and the upset price in each case fixed to correspond with their value.

The Norwegian bark Marographa, bound off Hatteras last month, and her crew were saved by the ship St. Nicholas, from Liverpool to New York.

James Nolan was, Friday, at New York, sentenced to be hanged on April 26th for the murder of his mistress, Emma Bath, on November the 20th.

Pigott's skull has been declared of splendid shape, and has been selected, from its appearance, a man of great force of character and imagination.

A PROFESSIONAL OPINION.

Rev. F. Gunner, M. D., of Lister, Ont., says regarding B.B.B.: "I have used your excellent Burdock Compound in practice and in my family since 1884, and hold it No. 1 on any list of purgative remedies. Your three times B's never sting, weaken or worry."

Jews and Gypsies in London.

In London, at the East End, there are growing and bitter complaints at the enormous influx of German, Russian and Polish Jews, who, on landing, are almost totally destitute of means. These starving immigrants are willing to work for a crust of bread and shelter, and thus enter into a life struggle with London's destitute poor for the scantiest means of existence. There is also a large incursion in the class of gypsies who are a curse to every village or district where they congregate. The English government seems to be unable to cope with the danger, but in Germany stringent measures are to be passed to abate the nuisance. Indeed, complaints are heard from every part of Germany about the threatening prospect of these modern nomads, and worse than this a number of cases of children being kidnapped are reported from the Russian provinces and Upper Silesia. It is intended to lay shortly an anti-gypsy law before the Federal council.—San Francisco Chronicle.

FOUR NEW STATES.

South Dakota, North Dakota, Montana and Washington.

On February 22, 1889, the President signed the bill creating South Dakota, North Dakota, Montana, and Washington states of the Union.

South Dakota.—The great Prairie State, to which the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway has three main lines reaching Ellendale, Aberdeen, Huron, Watertown, and Sioux Falls. On to South Dakota via the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway and pass through St. Paul and Minneapolis en route.

North Dakota.—Where is grown No. 1 Hard Scotch Life wheat; whose beautiful climate nurtures the most vigorous and brainy civilization on earth; where single counties raise more wheat, oats and barley than entire states; the soil of whose fertile prairies is richer than the valley of the Nile; where the Turtle Mountain, Minot, Devils Lake and Dakota divide the home seeker to secure a free home. Most direct daily train service to Fargo, Grand Forks, Grafton, Devils Lake, Bottineau, and all other important points.

Montana, the golden.—Treasures in her mines of precious metals; wealth in her 4,000,000 head of live stock; profit in her fertile fields, producing a larger yield of crops than any other state or territory; the richest country per inhabitant on earth, where prosperity is universal; which has the best paid labor in the world; a balmy winter climate, caused by warm winds from the Pacific. The St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway is the only railroad passing through a continuous agricultural country from St. Paul and Minneapolis to the Rocky Mountains. It runs through the Great River, the heart of the country, the heart of the nation, the heart of the world. It is the only line passing through Great Falls with its 1,000,000 horse power cutters; immense coal seams, and surrounding farming country of free land, through Helena, the capital city and commercial centre of Montana, and Butte, the richest mining camp on earth, to San Francisco by the Columbia River Valley, Portland and Shasta Route, or Ogden, Utah, to California points. Remember this is the only line running dining cars, sleeping cars, and free colonist sleepers of its own from St. Paul and Minneapolis to Great Falls, Helena and Butte. It is also the shortest line to Butte.

Washington.—The country of tall timber, undisturbed by Pagar Sound, the Mediterranean of the Pacific. Do not forget that the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway is the only line which offers a choice of three routes to the Pacific coast. The Manitoba Pacific route is the only line by which passengers en route for Tacoma, Portland, and San Francisco can pass through Port Townsend and Seattle. Free colonist sleepers run through without change of car. Distance to the Pacific Coast is same as by other lines, but prices of tickets are five and ten dollars less. Take the Seattle route.

For further information, maps, rates and publications in regard to the resources of the four new states, write or apply to F. L. WHITNEY, Gen'l Pass. and Tkt. Agt., St. P. M. & M. Ry., St. Paul, Minn.

QU'APPELLE.

- Trees budding.
- Magnificent weather.
- Who made a target of a pig?
- Mr. W. W. McMillan is here this week.
- Entries of homesteads in this district lively.
- Seeding operations have become general.
- The trio that upset the buggies paid for their fun.
- Mr. A. H. B. Spiering has purchased Mr. Harry Garden's farm near town.
- Twenty-eight immigrants with four cars of effects arrived here on Tuesday.
- Mr. W. W. Bole, representative of Dawson, Bole & Co., Regina, was in town yesterday.
- The members of the base ball club will turn out for their first practice game this afternoon.
- Rev. A. Andrews has returned from his western trip and will officiate at his appointments next Sunday.
- We regret to say that Mr. R. Dundas Strong has an attack of illness, but it is not typhoid fever as was feared.
- Mr. Benj. Swears has commenced horse clipping. He claims to be the best and quickest clipper in the Northwest.
- Pranks and practical jokes may be carried too far, and sometimes work like the booming when you don't know how to throw it.
- On Tuesday, May the 7th, (D.V.), a dramatic entertainment will be given by some of the members of the congregation of St. Peter's church, in aid of the Sunday School library.
- On Monday afternoon and evening last the R. C. Ladies Aid Society held an exhibit of fancy work and other articles, and they were drawn for the same evening, each ticket taking a prize. Rev. Father Monteil presided in a most affable manner. The affair was most successful which is largely due to the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Beauchamp.
- On Wednesday night there were express trains each way, but no mail. Commencing next week there will be mail regularly that night as well as others. The want of trains on Wednesday night has been an inconvenience to this part of the country which is now removed, though it is a pity that railway employees should be worked Sunday as well as week days.

—Mr. Jas. Scott has returned from a trip to the eastern provinces.

—Mr. Johnston has received a carload of buggies, phaetons and buckboards, which he is selling at low figures.

—His Lordship, the Bishop of Qu'Appelle, sailed yesterday on the steamship Vancouver, Dominion line, from Liverpool.

—Business is lively at the railway station. The handling of immigrants' effects and freight for outlying districts has made things hum.

—Mr. G. A. Gibson was plowing on Wednesday and yesterday and says the ground is in fine condition. The seeding operations that are going on are upon fall plowed land.

—We have seen a copy of the new medical work entitled the Practical Home Physician for which Mr. Humphries is now taking orders in this vicinity. The work is deserving of a large patronage by our people, it being written by several of our most eminent physicians, and at the same time in simple language easily understood by all.

—We have been asked how it is possible to say "seeding commenced," and "snow nearly all gone" the same issue of the PROGRESS. In this country the snow disappears from the ploughed ground first and as soon as it is thawed out three or four inches, which is almost immediately, seeding begins. There may be still considerable snow among the old high grass prairie and the bluffs of trees.

Smith, Acton; F. G. Oliver, R. Oliver, Ellsboro; F. C. Gilchrist, Fort Qu'Appelle; Chas. Burley, Portage la Prairie; R. A. Mather, Keewatin.

—Mr. R. Johnston returned from Montreal on Saturday last. He had purchased there a car load of excellent mares and two first class stallions, which arrived on Monday. The mares are such fine stock that they are being picked up very fast, and those desiring good teams should lose no time in making purchases. They are mostly in foal. The stallions, one a Blood and the other a Clydesdale, cannot be spoken of too highly as they are very superior animals, and Mr. Johnston is deserving of great praise for importing such fine stock.
